These days, the society is getting more and more result driven. As project managers, we need to get more done, within challenging timelines, in a structured way, while being cost efficient and providing excellent quality. The need for the project manager has never been so clear and the expectations are getting higher. The project manager needs to combine more talents, skills, tools and techniques to meet these expectations, demonstrate his or her value and not only produce results that are required, but also exceed the expectations. In fact, become the Prime Force for Excellent Results.

The story behind the theme for this year is that the project manager is like an invisible force that is holding all the parts together, just like gravity is an invisible force but very essential. Without gravity everything and everyone would be floating apart, nothing would stick together. Similarly, without the project manager all stakeholders would be off in their own direction and it would be hard to create any results. The project manager as a prime force refers to the unique and powerful person he or she is. The project manager is the driving force to fuel excellent results and absolutely necessary to get things done or as is worded in the PMI slogan: "we are indispensable for creating business results".

On the 11th PMI BeNeLux Day we will offer you a fun-loaded and inspiring event, where you can walk away with some valuable new ideas, insights, skills, tools and techniques that are offered in the various (interactive) sessions and master classes. We also want to honour you as a project manager; we want you to feel proud about what you contribute to your company and customer. We want you to walk away from the event and feel strong, unique and valuable and experience your role as the: Project Manager – Prime Force for Excellent Results.

Please check your e-mail during the next period for your invitation to join the 11th PMI BeNeLux Day!

Why attend?

- The conference: The most up-to-date project management topics in the 9 Knowledge Areas explored by key experts, ensuring the best quality learning experience.
- The exhibit area: Meet companies and organizations showcasing project management products and services, attend live demonstrations and get quick, meaningful answers to your questions
- The networking: In parallel to the main agenda, the 11th PMI BeNeLux Day is the place to gather innovative ideas and share best practices. There will be ample networking opportunities to provide an added value that goes well beyond the official programme.

Of course you can also join us as a presenter, volunteer or sponsor!

Why be a presenter?

- Widen your exposure in the Benelux project management community
- Promote your own or your organization's approach or experience within a specific Knowledge Area of project management
- Share personal insights and experience
- Gain valuable and immediate feedback from fellow project managers on a particular idea

Join our team of Presenters! Although we have the presenters list nearly complete for this event, we still would like you to add you to our database of presenters for these events.

Why be a volunteer?

- Share your particular project management talents
- Broaden your personal network by working closely with project management colleagues in the Benelux
- Earn extra PDU's
- Contribute to making the PMI Benelux Day a tremendous success!

Join our team of Volunteers to help organize this event! Although we have enough volunteers for this event, we still would like you to add you to our database of volunteers for these events.

Why be a sponsor?

- Enhance your brand awareness throughout the Benelux region
- Showcase your project management products, knowledge and services
- Meet decision makers and other contacts who can build lasting partnerships
- Demonstrate featured products and services at open podium sessions during the event day

Join our team of Sponsors! Contact the following members of the organizing team for Sponsorship queries:
